Happy Father's Day

It is thought that Father's Day origins held at a West Virginia Church on July 5,1908, where the Sunday sermon was exclusively dedicated to fathers in honor of the men who had lost their lives in a mine explosion in Monongah. This was, however, a one-time celebration without any intention of making it an annual observance.

Father's Day as we know it today was the idea of Sonora Dodd, a woman whose father, a widower, raised her and her five siblings by himself. When Mother's Day became a popular holiday in the United States, Dodd thought that there should be a similar day to honor fathers and fatherhood. In 1910, she campaigned for the day with her local church, YMCA and the government. Initially, she suggested June 5 as the day to hold the celebration, her father's birthday, however the third Sunday of June was deemed more appropriate for the observance of father's Day. On 19,1910, the first official Father's Day was celebrated in the state of Washington.

Initially, the day wasn't as successfully as Mother's Day, and as Dodd found herself busier with school, Father's Day was eventually forgotten. In the 1930s, with the help of manufacturers of male products such as ties tobacco, and men's clothes retailer, Dodd began a new campaign for father's Day, this time at a national level. However , people were, people were dubious of this holiday, thinking that it was an attempt by manufacturers to profit from another commercial holiday such as Mother's Day.

It was in 1966 that President Lyndon B Johnson issued a proclamation declaring the third Sunday of June as Father's Day.
